Problem Statement: Daily Horoscope Generator

Goal: Input a zodiac sign and generate a vague but convincing fortune.

Tech: GPT-2

ABSTRACT

This project creates a Daily Horoscope Generator using GPT-2 text generation model from Hugging Face. The system generates personalized predictions for all 12 zodiac signs across four categories: general, love, career, and health. Each zodiac sign has stored data like ruling planet, element, traits, and lucky numbers. The generator combines these details with prompt templates and feeds them to GPT-2, which completes the text to create unique horoscopes. Generation parameters like temperature and top_p control the creativity and randomness of outputs. The system demonstrates how pre-trained language models can generate creative, convincing content without needing additional training.

DOCUMENTATION

What I Understood:

The task was to build a program that generates daily horoscopes for zodiac signs. Horoscopes should sound realistic and personalized but stay vague enough to apply to anyone. This needs combining real astrological information with AI text generation. I learned that Hugging Face provides ready-to-use models like GPT-2 for text generation. The model works by completing prompts we give it. The quality depends on how we write the prompts and set generation parameters. Temperature controls randomness (higher means more creative), and max_length limits how long the output is.

What I Built:

1. A database storing information for all 12 zodiac signs including their element, ruling planet, personality traits, and lucky numbers.

2. Prompt templates for four life areas: general outlook, love, career, and health. These give starting phrases for the AI to complete.
3. A generation function that picks a zodiac sign's traits and builds a prompt like "Today brings cosmic influences toward [trait] energy and [planet]'s influence." GPT-2 then completes this into full horoscope text.
4. A class that generates all four horoscope types, adds lucky numbers and colors, and displays everything in a clean format.

The system successfully creates different horoscopes each time while keeping them relevant to each zodiac sign's characteristics.

How It Works

When you input a zodiac sign, the generator creates four types of predictions:

- General outlook for the day
- Love and relationships
- Career and professional life
- Health and wellness

The generation process combines structured prompts with the sign's traits and ruling planet. For example, for Virgo (Earth sign ruled by Mercury with "practical" traits), it builds prompts like "Today brings cosmic influences that guide you toward hardworking energy and Mercury's influence."

GPT-2 then completes these prompts to create unique horoscope text each time.
